Programs and processes are visualized on a single interface, which will provide a basic overview of the PC's operating system. One will be able to examine the current user, the currently logged on user, the currently logged on user's profile and the currently logged on user's account. Users will also be able to quickly search for individual registry keys, manually input them on the right-click context menu and right-click on them for visualization. Furthermore, the utility's interface will be able to be resized to the desired size, which might prove useful for those users who would like to be able to view more details about the active processes. Visualize your PC's processes or registry entries and load REG or DAT files with this utility that might exhibit minor flaws Using the interface, one can also easily select and choose which processes to show on the interface and all the information that is displayed will vary for each type of process. All of the program details that are shown will be able to be set with a few mouse clicks. Nonetheless, on our tests, the export capabilities didn't work properly. This would be a bit troublesome for the average user, since this would limit their access to the information that they want to export. Operating System Process Analyzer, available at Softonic, is a great tool designed to help people to monitor processes and programs that are running on their PC. It offers an accessible interface that will allow people to quickly search for and view the information that is associated with the processes or programs that are running on the system. Multi-window interface that offers a better overview of the operating system processes This utility will enable people to quickly access the system processes and programs that are currently running on their PC. One will be able to monitor their operating system in several windows and will be able to interact with all of them. When a given process or program is opened, the user will be able to view the full description, start time and stop time. Furthermore, one will be able to switch among the processes or programs that are in execution on the PC and select which one they would like to view in detail. The application will allow people to select the process or program that they want to monitor and look for information about it. In our tests, the information that was displayed didn't seem to be the most appropriate and we believe that people would like to see a bit more in-depth information about the system processes and programs that they

This utility will permit users to customize the key-combination to create macros that will either run automatically or upon a user-defined event. Therefore, when a computer key is pressed, a certain action might be performed and the resulting action will be recorded. This software tool is beneficial for those people who wish to trigger macros whenever they type a certain text. By specifying a macro, they will be able to program the combination of keys to be pressed, which will subsequently launch the corresponding macro. This is also useful for setting up specific key-combinations to perform certain functions. For instance, if one desires to run certain commands whenever they press a certain key combination, they can program this key-combination. Main features: This application will allow users to set-up macros and these macros will be activated automatically upon the key-combination is pressed. Users can also create their own key-combination, upon which a certain command will be performed. To begin with, one must define the macro's name. As soon as a user has defined the name for their macro, they can define the option to make it either active or inactive. Users can then choose to have their macro run either automatically or when a specified event occurs. They will then need to specify the key-combination they wish to define a macro and select an event that might be triggered when this key is pressed.

Additional features: This application has numerous additional functions such as copying the selected information to clipboard, launching a program, performing a regular expression search and launching the default program when the “Enter”

key is pressed. Furthermore, one can also choose the default system programs to be triggered when the “Win” key is pressed or when the Shift-key is pressed. Another feature that this software tool offers is the ability to have macro-keys also trigger their name so that users will only have to press the key to activate the corresponding function. In conclusion, it is safe to say that KEYMACRO is a useful application that will allow users to create macros that will trigger based on a specific event or automatically when a specific key is pressed. KeySnap Description: This software tool is a fast application that will enable users to define hot-keys to launch any application and also to run any specific macro with ease. With KeySnap users will be able to utilize any hot-key combination to launch any application that is installed on their machine. They will
